AMS News

How important is education? Philosphies and methods on teaching may differ; policies from state to state may vary greatly; issues of importance to various professional organizations may not coincide. But all would unite in agreement that not only is education important, it is critical to our future growth as people and as a nation.

National Education Week is Nov. 15-19 and the faculty at A.M.S. plans to take this opportunity to put the spotlight where it belongs; one the positive aspects of our educational system and the educators who make it work. The theme for the week is 'A Strong Nation Needs Strong Schools'. The week will be filled with special activities which have been organized by Mrs. Linda Campbell. An Open House is planned for Wed., Nov. 17. Parents are cordially invited to visit the classrooms to observe first hand the high quality of instruction which is a daily occurance at A.M.S. Refreshments will be prepared by FHA members under the supervision of Mrs. Clara Staten.

That Wednesday has also been designated 'Teacher-Appreciation Day'. How many of us in our jobs and professions would be willing to work as much as 30% of our time without pay? Teachers do. The average teacher puts in about 16 hours of 'over-time'; after school, evenings and weekends; to attend PTA functions and professional meetings, attend in-service classes, chair and serve on school committees, sponsor clubs, grade papers, design and put up bulletin boards, construct and develop teaching games and learning centers, hold conferences and plan other instructional materials needed for quality instruction in the classroom. Can you think of any other occupation where so many give so much without any form of retribution? Teachers so often comment, "It isn't the low pay, the long hours, the extra work or lack of interest displayed by some students that make this job so frustrating. It's the genuine lack of appreciation for the services we perform." Wed., Nov. 17 is your opportunity to let our teachers know their hard work does not go unnoticed. Perhaps you would be willing to donate 30 minutes to help some teacher grade papers or file records. You can make arrangements with your child's teacher to do just that. As you pass from class to class even the statement, "You're doing a good job" could brighten some teacher's day.

The week's activities will culminate with a program spotlighting various aspects of education. The foreign language special interest group will teach a lesson in Spanish to the audience, followed by a game to see how much the audience learned. The winner to an essay contest on the topic "What education means to me," will be announced and the essay will be published in the school newspaper. Musical numbers under the direction of Mr. Frank Coffey and Miss Sue Wright will highlight fine arts in education and a special team of gymnastics from Longwood College will conclude the program with a demonstration of their skills and talents. The assembly will be held Friday, Nov. 19.

Appomattox County's week to attend Holiday Lake 4-H Camp in 1983 will be the week of July 4 - 8. We have been told that we may have a chance to switch weeks with another camping group if the week of July 4 - 8 presents special problems. We would appreciate hearing from parents concerning our scheduled camping date for 1983. Please call us at the Extension Office (352-8244) if you have questions about the 4-H camp program.

• • • •

With the opening of hunting season upon us, many young people will be taking to the fields and woods. Safety and the safe handling of firearms should be first in each person's mind. Statistics have shown that carelessness and horseplay are the main causes for hunting accidents among young people.

4-H pine seedling orders will be given to members during their November meetings. The pine seedling program is sponsored by the Virginia Division of Forestry and provides the 4-H members with an opportunity to plant either 25 or 50 loblolly pine seedlings as forest trees. Trees obtained through this program MUST be planted as a forest stand of trees to give the 4-H'ers an opportunity to watch the trees grow over a period of time.
